Toolkit and Resources to Help Early Career Educators

September 26, 2023

Your first few years of teaching will test you more intensely than just about anything you’ve done up to now. It will be exhausting, super stressful, and make you question your skill, talent, and decision to become an educator, but it can also be so rewarding and will leave you better and stronger than you are today. Advice is available everywhere you look, and some good, some bad, and with all that you have to do as an ECE right now, it’s easy to get overwhelmed by the sheer volume of it all. So, join us for this webinar and let PSEA help you start your year out with a focused array of articles, videos, and other resources that are chock-full of tips and advice for early career educators to help make it the best year possible.

The Future is Happening as We Speak: Technology and Artificial Intelligence (AI) in the Classroom Today for Early Career Educators

October 10, 2023

The future is here and brings an onslaught of questions: How much tech is too much? What does education look like with all of this technology and when Artificial Intelligence can write essays, complete homework assignments, and write lesson plans? Explore how educators can begin to think about navigating the strengths and weaknesses of technology and AI to create meaningful educational experiences for students and work more efficiently for themselves.
Join us to dive into these questions and more key strategies and guidance for early career educators serving today’s students living in this new world.

Effective Classroom Management for Today’s Early Career Educator: What does the research tell us works?

October 24, 2023

This contemporary session is for both elementary and secondary teachers and it introduces participants to Harry Wong’s work on classroom “procedures” and Robert Marzano’s work on the most effective research-based classroom management strategies. It encourages educators to examine and reflect upon their own practices in terms of the Marzano’s descriptions and categories. Participants will walk away with an enhanced understanding of where their own practice is strongest, learn from the strategies, techniques, examples of other teachers and will leave with numerous resources and strategies to improve their own craft and technique immediately within the confines of their own classroom.

Managing Student Behavior

November 7, 2023

Providing a clear structure for classroom management supports most students. Some students require a greater level of support and may have specially designed instruction to address behavior. This one-hour session will discuss students who require higher level of behavioral supports and evidence-based strategies to provide successful interventions and gather effective data.

What to Know about Student Individualized Educational Plans (IEPs)

November 14, 2023

Individualized Education Programs are designed to address the needs of students with disabilities in the least restrictive environment. Please join this one-hour session to discuss practical strategies to meet the needs of students with IEPs, while maintaining necessary paperwork and timelines outlined in IDEA and Chapter 14.

All sessions will be scheduled for one hour (7:00-8:00 PM) with a thirty minute Q&A/discussion following for those interested in participating.
